

INTRODUCTION.....	1
Justification: outsourcing, flexibility and service work	1
The structure of this book	3
 CHAPTER ONE	11
OUTSOURCING AND SERVICE WORK IN THE NEW ECONOMY
1.1. Outsourcing and the blurring boundaries of the modern firm.....	11
1.2. New employment relationships and employment in inter-organisational settings	17
1.3. Service work and outsourcing.....	23
Conclusions.....	34
 CHAPTER TWO	39
CONTEXT AND METHODOLOGY: THE MEXICAN SERVICE ECONOMY AND SELECTED CASE STUDIES
2.1. The Mexican context: liberalisation, outsourcing and service work	39
2.2. The research design: a case study approach.....	55
2.3. The four organisations selected.....	58
2.4. The unit of analysis: accounts and job categories	62
2.5. Research methods and data collection tools: interviews and observation	66
Conclusion	69
 CHAPTER THREE	71
OUTSOURCING AND MULTI-EMPLOYER RELATIONSHIPS: PROBLEMS AND CHALLENGES
3.1. Outsourcing: conflict and cooperation in multi-employer relationships	71
3.2. The paradox of outsourcing: the core importance of downsized workers	84

3.3. The contract for services as a competitive advantage in outsourcing.....	89
Conclusion	91
CHAPTER FOUR	95
THE ORGANISATION OF WORK IN MULTI-EMPLOYER SITES: SIMILAR JOBS BUT DIFFERENT EXPERIENCES OR THE ‘VISIBLE HAND’ OF THE CLIENT FIRM
4.1. The service dilemma: standardisation versus customisation and the organisation of work	95
4.2. Sales	98
4.3. Customer services	103
4.4. Technical support.....	109
4.5. Supervisors.....	114
Conclusion	119
CHAPTER FIVE.....	123
CONTROL IN MULTI-EMPLOYER WORKPLACES: THE IMPORTANCE OF SOCIAL DIVISIONS
5.1. Call centres and the social geography of Mexico City.....	123
5.2. The importance of social networks in recruitment.....	130
5.3. Control, discipline and labour segregation.....	135
5.4. Are social divisions at work a conscious managerial strategy? ..	147
5.5. Workers’ collective response: organised labour and the union at Techntronics	149
Conclusion	153
CHAPTER SIX.....	157
THE BOUNDARIES OF THE FIRM RE-ESTABLISHED: THE EXPERIENCE OF MANAGERS
6.1. Managerial jobs in the new service economy: the case of call centre managers.....	157
6.2. The importance of loyalty and commitment in managerial careers	162
6.3. Alternative experiences in managerial careers.....	166
Conclusion	170
CONCLUSIONS	173
Narrow job designs	174
Customer segmentation.....	175
Supervision approach.....	176
Managers and organisational boundaries re-established	177

Union avoidance	178
Social divisions and control	179
The use of contracts for services.....	181
Final thoughts	182